

Four Corners

Supplies:

- Something to differentiate either four corners or four spots in your area

How to play:

There is one “counter” who hides their eyes by the door and counts to ten, in that time everyone else picks a corner to stand in (which are labeled ahead of time as one, two, three, and four).

Once the counter has finished counting to ten, before opening their eyes, they pick a corner, everyone in that corner is then out.

When it gets down to 4 kids or less, they cannot share corners, they each must pick a new different corner every time.

This goes on until everyone, but one person is out. The winner then becomes the counter for the next round.
