The Waiting Room

Life itself is a waiting room, and in it we learn how to put the commotion in the background, and seek our Teacher. God is steadily orchestrating character development through our life activities so we can acquire the abilities we need to be able to handle the abundant life He has planned for us. There are unlimited spheres of maturity in our Savior Jesus Christ that we must grow into. Everything in the waiting room is good and for our good because everything is used to ready us for God's purpose. When we are stubborn and try to avoid the way God develops us, things begin to go bad for us. All this does is extend the amount of time we will spend in the waiting room. We are not favorable to things that make us feel uncomfortable or require an amount of patience in order for us to get what we want. You see – it's all about God. Waiting is a relational matter. While we're waiting on God – God is also waiting on us...patiently.

Yes, the waiting room is where we learn how to comply with God's timing instead of our own. Everything God will get done through you and me is already set in its appointed time, confirmed, and completed. We must learn to 'get out of our hurry', because God has completed His plans, and they have long been in motion since the beginning of time. God is in complete control. The transformation that takes place within us while we are in the waiting room makes us different from the people that the world seeks to devour.

God's Holy Spirit within us will leave no empty voids to be filled. The spirit of discernment will enable us to maneuver around and through the world's call on our life with power, grace, mercy, and humility. What is meant for you and for me comes from the hand of God, and He will hold us and what He has for us until He knows our spiritual character is ready to receive it. Yes, this is what we have to look forward to in the waiting room! We make the choice as whether we will wait on God or follow man. The latter would be the ultimate mistake, for man has no patience or care for others like our God does. When we choose to wait on God, we inevitably come to appreciate Him for waiting on us to reach our fullest potential of maturity in His Son so that we can proceed with His Kingdom purpose in our lives. Join me in life, and let's wait on God – together. This is our waiting room.
