

CODY MOORE
Student Pastor

Hello Northside Family. I remember as a young boy watching a bad thunderstorm roll through the pasture behind our house. The closer it got to our house the harder the rain fell. The lightening and wind picked up, but it was the thunder that scared me. I guess the older I have gotten the more fascinated I've become about storms. I used to run and hide, now I can be found sitting outside on our porch watching. Since moving here I have had this unsettled fear about when a big storm may hit. Am I ready? What do I need to do? Since I have never been through a hurricane I have no clue what to expect or really what to do to get ready. The great thing is that I have a community around me that has been through one, and they know what to do. I get to ask for help and get guidance from a group of people that love and care for us.

We all have storms in our lives, and to tell you the truth we all are a little afraid of what is happening around us. The amazing thing is we are not alone. We have a community that, at least someone, has gone through something like what we are currently facing. Over the summer I loved hearing all the stories tied to people's favorite scriptures, and it made me appreciate more the community we have here. A storm is always around the corner, and we are always waiting for what seems like a never-ending list of things that will happen. I hope you will be willing to ask for help, or help someone else that is in a time of need.

On another note, our student ministry is up and running full steam ahead with all that is happening this fall. Summer seems like a distant past, and we are up to our eyeballs in sports and new school events. Please be praying for our students as they are back to school and being missionaries to their worlds. Some are just living their lives as examples to their teammates, while others are bringing light to some pretty scary and dark places as they do life with others. Please pray that they will have wisdom and understanding as they live out their faith in front of other students. We have already heard and seen some stories that God has moved and prayers have been answered, but we know that new storms and challenges await. Thank you church for loving students and their families so well.
