

Anger “Hot Button” List

“Adapted from Lou Priolo, Complete Husband, p.115-116

Name _____ Date _____

It is our responsibility to not become bitter and angry towards other people. Let’s see if we can identify exactly what it is that provokes you to anger.

1. Place a check next to the items below that push your “hot button.” As you look at these items, ask yourself what it is that you want most from other people around you, and what it is that provokes an angry response in you when you don’t get it.

2. Now that you’ve identified your ‘hot buttons’ (your idolatrous desires) you must work on dethroning your idols. You must prayerfully and actively replace those inordinate desires with desires that are in accordance with pleasing and glorifying God, rather than pleasing and glorifying yourself. You must learn to change the way you think about your desires and the extent to which you think the people around you must meet them.

Rather than thinking, “This person is a... (insert your favorite word) for not giving me what I want,” you must learn to think, “Having a person in my life who doesn’t...(insert your inordinate desire), is not the worst thing in the world. I must learn to love the Lord and to love them more than I love my...(insert your inordinate desire).”
