FAQs

I don't want to give online. Should I still create a Realm profile?

There are many benefits to a profile:

- Print your own charitable contributions statement.
- Keep up with your classes and small groups.
- Opt-in to our online directory.

Is my information secure?

Your information is encrypted. Plus, the payment processor for Realm complies with the highest security standards in the industry.

What can church members with Realm accounts see about me?

Members with Realm accounts can see the name and photo of other Realm users. Your giving history and age are never visible to church members. Your contact information can only be seen by staff and your fellow group members. You can adjust your privacy settings to share your information with additional Realm users.

The security of your information doesn't stop there. This year, take steps to use different, random passwords for all your online accounts. Let's work together to keep things safe.

When I sign in Realm, I cannot see my giving history or my household information.

This means something you entered when creating an account didn't match our records. We can often rectify this for you. Sign in Realm next week, and if you don't see an updated Realm profile, please contact the church office.
