

Statement Regarding Recent Social Media Posts

It has come to the attention of Conference Administration that recent social media posts have been made which contain allegations against employees of the South Atlantic Conference. We are deeply troubled by these recent Facebook posts regarding two of our pastors. Please know that Conference administration takes such allegations very seriously when brought to our attention and we undertake to fully investigate and take appropriate actions as necessary.

The Seventh-day Adventist Church has a zero-tolerance policy regarding such matters and has a comprehensive sexual ethics investigation protocol in place. We have already begun our investigation into this matter.

Please know that the safety and emotional well-being of our workers and members is of utmost importance. We will move forward with dispatch, yet with meticulous delving to get answers to these troubling allegations.

We solicit your prayers.

South Atlantic Conference Administration
