Zebulon Montgomery Pike (January 5, 1779 – April 27, 1813) was an American brigadier general and explorer for whom Pikes Peak in Colorado was renamed.

One of Pike's expeditions crossed the Rocky Mountains into what is now southern Colorado, which led to his capture by the Spanish colonial authorities near Santa Fe.

The Historical Society hosts two summer dinners in Hartsel as a way of reaching out to the rural community. We welcome an invitation from other communities to host our Dinner and History Presentations.
